

ARREST FOR WIFE AND CHILD, AT SEA, IGNORANT OF TRAGEDY

On April 9, 1917, Clancy, while serving with the Royal Irish Artillery, went over with the Canadians when they took Vimy Ridge, with the Stars and Stripes fastened to his bayonet. In describing the incident, he said:

"It was on April 9, 1917, that I heard through battery orders that the United States had declared war on Germany. I was glad to hear it and went over to my kit bag and took out Old Glory, which I had kept there for some time."

"At 6:30 on Monday morning of April 9 I went over the top with the Canadian forces and had Old Glory fastened to my bayonet. The enemy was defeated when he saw it and did not know what it meant until some time later."

WOUNDED THREE TIMES.

Clancy, whose home was in Ipswich for some time, enlisted in the Princess Patricia of the Royal Field Artillery on September 24, 1914. In March, 1915, his regiment went to France, and at Neuve Chapelle Clancy was wounded in the head with shrapnel splinters. After six weeks in hospital the young man returned to his regiment and was in the taking of the famous St. Julien ridge. He also fought through the battle of the Somme and at Gourmourt again was wounded. This time in the head, hands and shoulders.

NATIVE OF BOSTON.

The following September, Clancy again was wounded when his outfit was going to the relief of the hard-pressed Crowville regiment. This wound was caused by a rifle bullet through the head. He later participated in the battles of "Verring Ridge," during which he took part in the successful Canadian assault on Vimy Ridge. The young man was discharged from service on May 24, 1919.

Clancy was born in Boston, February 18, 1895, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clancy, moving to Ipswich with his parents when a child. He came to the police department, especially recommended by prominent residents of Ipswich, including C. W. Galligan and Arthur V. Harris, officers of the Ipswich Mills, where the young man was employed before going into service. Others were Albert F. Walsh, associate justice of the Third District Court, Essex County, Dr. G. E. MacArthur and George H. W. Hayes, Jr., Ipswich attorney.

Clancy's father, who lives at No. 34 Harrison avenue, Boston, was notified of the shooting by the police. He said that the boy had no money and he himself was without funds. "The murdered patrolman will be buried proper burial, however, as it necessary the burden will be borne by the police department. It also is understood that a fund will be collected for the young mother and child."

HOLDS CROWD AT BAY.

The men detained refused to admit to any knowledge of the shooting, declaring that they were in another part of the hall when it took place.

When Clancy dropped with a bullet in his lung, Patrolman Antonio De Franco of Station 3, who was present as a patron, drew his revolver and held the crowd at bay. More than 800 dancers were forced to stand with their hands to the air until the arrival of aid which had been summoned for Clancy, who was on the way to the Relief Division.

The police of every station were immediately notified, and officers at once began to search the haunts of gangsters throughout the city.

Clancy was arrested at the Police Department on December 9 last and was held in the City Jail, City square, Charleston. He served with distinction throughout the war, receiving decorations from both England and France and was one of the few survivors of the Princess Patricia, the Canadian regiment.

While on leave from the front, he married the daughter of a friend, and at the end of the war, to establish a home in this country.

A short time ago the young soldierman wrote to Mrs. Clancy, sending her passage money, and with their three-year-old boy, she sailed from Liverpool to join her husband in their new home.

In the meantime, Clancy was assigned to duty at a dance and cabaret held under the auspices of the "Bancroft Club" at the Regatta Club, from 10 o'clock last night to 3 o'clock this morning.

HIS WARNINGS IGNORED.

Shortly before midnight he was forced to warn several of the male dancers, said to be gangsters. They paid no attention, according to the police, and Clancy again warned them.

This happened several times, and on the last occasion the policemen exchanged words with the men.

The police say the men resented Clancy's interference, and word was passed around that someone would "get" him. Black glasses were thrown in his face, and he was told that any part of the hall was greeted with shouts of "Get him!"

Some time after midnight Clancy noticed a couple catching in a manager's net. He was immediately seized and taken to the floor. Being the man who immediately seized his woman companion, the policeman attempted to place him under arrest.

According to the police, the dancer struck Clancy, who stood with him, and the two engaged in a struggle. The crowd closed in. The fight was interrupted by the sound of shot.

DANCE WOMEN TRAGEDY.

Women screamed and men cursed while the orchestra continued to play a lively air. One or two couples continued to dance, but the majority were stunned.

As Clancy dropped, unconscious, De Franco, who was on hand to lead his brother sing as a part of the entertainment, rushed to the spot and drew his revolver.

At the moment the spot address drew the throng back from the fallen policeman, at the same time attempting to keep his eye on the main door in order that he might escape.

In the meantime an ambulance had been sent for, in which Clancy was hurried to the Relief Station. It was found that his revolver was in its accustomed place in his pocket.

DANCERS ARE DEPARTED.

A number of the dancers left the hall in the excitement of getting the Calls Charges of Mrs. Shonts 'a Cruel Slander'

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 22.—"Propaganda and a cruel slander," is the answer of Mrs. Amanda C. Thomas, through her counsel, to the charges brought by Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts in the latter's $100,000 suit for alleged alienation of the late Mr. Shonts' affections. It was declared the suit would be vigorously contested.

Mrs. Shonts alleged that "the defendant did prey ruthlessly upon the said Theodore P. Shonts and by her artifice, immorality and wiles induced said Theodore P. Shonts from the society of the plaintiff and alienated his love and affection for her."

When Mr. Shonts died he was president of the Interboro Rapid Transit Company.

wounded man away, the majority being women. The remainder were detained by Lieutenant Charles G. McCloskey, Lieutenant Matthew Killian, Sergeant Patrick Magar and twenty patrolmen who had been sent to the hall.

During the search of the premises the police found a .32-caliber revolver under the radiator near the main entrance. Clancy lived at No. 49 Winthrop street, Charleston.

DEAD WHERE THEY ARE.

Colonel Edwin Carpenter, who has recently arrived at army headquarters from overseas, where he had been to do with attending to the burying of the dead, advised that the bodies of horses he left in France and other places. "It would be a great mistake to have bodies removed to America," he said. The bodies buried in France and the sea and are not in any place to be removed. Some of them have been taken to other places and are being buried as many as three times.

GET PRISONER IN NEWTON SHOOTING.

Inspectors O'Malley and Good returned to Newton today, bringing from New York, Charles H. Gardner, thirty-five, of Providence, under indictment in the robbery of the tailor shop at No. 451 Washington street, December 15, when Officer Henry Loughlin was shot. Gardner is charged with breaking and entering and larceny. He will be tried in East Cambridge.

SEDITION BILLS ARE OPPOSED BY PALMER

Gompers, at Congressional Hearing, Fights Passage of Two Obnoxious Measures

Graham bills have become so widespread in both the Senate and House that leaders, irrespective of party lines, have decided not to press the passage of either measure, it was stated today.

DEFEAT EXPECTED.

Without the support of the leaders, it was freely predicted, neither measure would pass.

The Sterling bill, passed by the Senate recently, will be defeated in the House, it is predicted, if an effort is made to push it there. The Graham bill, however, is a substitute for the Sterling measure, may be killed in the House Committee.

"The highest id in our history will be called on from speech, if either of the 'anti-sedition' bills passes," it is asserted by the "Committee of 48," a national political organization of protest in opposing the two measures.

"THROTTLES FREEDOM."

The Graham bill is declared by its opponents to "throttle both freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

A petition, which provides for the imposition of the death penalty upon anyone guilty of sedition, forms the basis for many of the objections to it.

The defeat of so-called "anti-sedition" legislation came after a nationwide campaign of protest by the American press, led by the Hearst newspapers.

This campaign demonstrated the hysteria back of certain of the legislation, and the fact that it constituted a sinister threat to the constitutional liberties of all the people.

The response of the public to this campaign indicated that the people did not share the views of the extremists and of the legislation.

The dangers lurking in such legislation, which would be extended in an editorial in the Boston American on January 6, the editorial pointed out that under the provisions of this law, anyone would be safe who dispensed the administration.

Freedom of speech and press would be abolished; the right of trial

Field Quits Bank to Run $120,000,000 Estate

By International News Service.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Captain Marshall Field, 84, one of the heirs of the estate left by the late department store magnate, quit his job today as a clerk in the office of Lane, Higginson & Co., where he was studying the bond business.

He got a better job—managing the $120,000,000 Field estate. "Of course," said the "richest young man in America," "I did not learn much in three months, but I learned enough to help me a lot in running my own business."

SENSTATE HANSON

"That a formal protest will be made to the Governor's Council against the ousting of Thure Hanson, State commissioner of standards, was strongly intimated in political circles today."

"Hanson was for six years a faithful, intelligent and aggressive public official and General Swadlow should be compelled to go before the council and tell us why he declined to resign him," said a member of the council.

"Hanson saved the people perhaps millions of dollars by teaching them to buy, how to get the best, how to force dishonest and shaming retailers to give them what they paid for," said the member.

FREEMAN ORDERED CHILDREN TO SPY ON MOTHER, GIRL TESTIFIES

Sally, Sixteen-Year-Old Daughter, Is Witness Against Her Father at Divorce Trial

rear door, heavily veiled, she is of slender build, serious in manner, attractive without being pretty, and showed no more perturbation than her mother had displayed on the witness stand. Asked at one point by Attorney Frederick Hall, of counsel for her mother, "do you love your father?" Sally answered bluntly, "I do not."

In the private hearing room were also the parents, counsel for both sides, and a representative of the press. Before testifying to the story, Judge Peckham stated:

"I am going to hear the young girl's testimony in private because it is not wise to embarrass her by having her face a crowded court room. In doing this I have only the child's interests at heart. I am not doing it for her father or her mother. I am doing it for her benefit alone."

SAW HIM HIT MOTHER. A considerable part of the child's testimony corroborated that of her mother regarding alleged cruelty by the husband. She told Judge Peckham that she saw him strike her mother only once, when he slapped her face.

The most startling incident in her story was that once when the family were out motoring, Freeman driving and her with the seat beside him, he suddenly stopped the car as they came to a broken bridge and asked Mrs. Freeman to get out and wait for him.

After that her father turned the car around and drove back to the house, continuing their drive, she said.

Sally said that her father, besides employing detectives to watch Mrs. Freeman, told her and Ruth, her sister, a great number of times to read the magazine of Mrs. Freeman's personal automobile and include its readings in their report.

Sally herself fabricated reports, according to her testimony. Sometimes when Freeman sent her out to read the paper, she said, she would slip the outer door to make him think she was sleeping and then return and give any figure that came into her head. Her sister, she continued, kept notes faithfully. Sally testified that she did not know whether Ruth loved their father or not.

"NOT MUCH LOVE LOST."

At another point in her testimony, referring to her own relations with her father, Sally said that she "didn't think there was much love lost" between them.

Questioned as to some of the conversations between husband and wife to which Mrs. Freeman had testified, Sally said that she had not heard them.

She was the first and only witness for the day, as at the close of her testimony counsel for both sides rested.

Sally testified that she was sixteen on her last birthday, September 4, she was first questioned by Attorney Hall.

Q—You are living at Hyde Park with your mother, your sister Ruth and another brother and sister? A—Yes.

Q—You remember some years ago you lived in Dedham? A—Yes.

Q—You remember when you left Dedham in 1911? A—Yes.

Q—About nine or ten? A—Yes.

Q—In 1911 you were how old? A—About nine or ten.

Q—You were going to your father's voice being raised in discussions with your mother? A—Yes.

Q—It was of frequent occurrence? A—Yes.

Q—Your father took her mother into another room, the girl added, and locked the door while these arguments were going on.

Q—Will you tell us what these arguments were about? A—Father did not like mother to write letters without his knowing about them.

TESTIMONY IS BARRELED. Q—Any other cases? A—I think he was jealous.

This testimony was ordered stricken from the records.

Q—Do you recall an incident about the breaking of chinaware? A—Yes, he avoided mother for breaking the china.

Q—Were there times when he avoided her, and you didn't know what it was about? A—Yes.

Q—Tell the court whether your mother cried on these occasions? A—Yes.

Q—Why did she go out without her consent? A—No, I do not.

The girl, under further questioning, her parents continued after they moved to Hyde Park. "Mother and father argued frequently," she said.

Q—Do you recall an incident which occurred when you, Ruth, and your father and mother were on an auto ride? A—Yes, it was on a Sunday afternoon.

Q—Was your father driving? A—Yes.

Q—Where were you driving? A—About Dedham.

QUARRELED IN AUTO. She explained that her mother was sitting on the front seat with her father.

Q—Tell what happened in the car? A—They had been quarreling. We were slowing down. There was a broken bridge ahead. Father took the wheel of the wheel and started to shake mother. Mother screamed and I told him to stop.

She then said that the car was turned round and they went home.

The "slower side incident," which her mother earlier testified to, then was taken up. "The daughter corroborated the mother's testimony to the effect that her father, noticing a chip out of a tumbler, had asked about it, and Ruth said that mother did it in pouring ginger ale. When the father learned later where the ginger ale was purchased he became angry, she said.

RAW BURNING ON ARM. Her mother, Sally testified, left the room, and her father followed. Sally said trouble followed upstairs, and that when she went upstairs she saw blood on her mother's nose.

Q—Did you ever hear your father say anything to your mother about going to a particular grocery store? A—No.

Q—Do you recall that at one time in Hyde Park your mother showed you letters? A—Yes, on her right arm.

Q—Was your father present? A—No.

Q—In the Summer of 1917 you had a cottage at Scituate? A—Yes.

Sally then described the cottage, saying her mother frequently slept in the guest room, next to hers. She told what they were about.

Q—Do you remember an incident that summer when you ran upstairs while there was an argument? A—Yes.

Q—Father took mother into the kitchen and locked the door. Mother told me to let him in. Father asked to be let out. He paid no attention, but kept on talking to mother.

Q—Did you distinguish any of their talk? A—No.

HEARD ACCENTURATIONS. Q—When you were at that time when your father spoke to your mother about a Dr. Bennett? A—Yes.

Q—How many times? A—Several.

Q—Tell what you heard each time. A—He accused mother of writing and telephoning to Dr. Bennett.

Q—Do you recall that you had the German measles in the Winter of 1917? A—Yes.

Q—Do you recall an incident when you were sick in bed? A—Yes.

Q—Mother had come up with something for me and father had come, too. They had been quarreling before and he began again. Mother said she didn't want a quarrel before me and she went out. He followed her.

Q—He said I was in bed. He said to let him in. I told him I would not. He said he would break down the door if it was not opened, and he did.

Q—How did he do it? A—He pushed it.

Q—Did he have anything in his hand? A—Yes, a pocket.

Q—Do you remember that in 1917 and early in 1918 your father spoke to you about a divorce? A—Yes.

Q—What did he say? A—He said that he would get a divorce if mother didn't turn around.

Q—Any man's name mentioned? A—Yes, Dr. Bennett. He said writing to him and was telephoning with Dr. Bennett and that she took him to bed and that she wrote to him at his office in Boston.

Q—Did he mention a postoffice box in Massachusetts? A—Yes, he said mother had a postoffice box and that he (father) had looked in it and could tell the writing.

Q—Did he say anything about anyone at the postoffice copying letters for him? A—Yes, he said he had someone in the postoffice copying those letters.

TALK OF DETECTIVES. Q—Did your father have any talks with you about detectives? A—Yes.

He was reading a letter one day and said it was from one of his detectives. He said he had detectives following him.

Q—Have you ever seen Dr. Bennett? A—Yes, once.

She described Dr. Bennett as gray-haired and stout. Her mother told her the man was Dr. Bennett, the maid.

Q—Have you ever seen your father strike your mother? A—Yes.

The witness said that once at lunch she saw her father strike her mother. Asked if she saw her father strike her mother at any other times, she replied that she had seen him slap her mother's face when he was scolding her.

Q—Sally, if it came to a choice as to who you would rather live with, your father or your mother, who would you choose? A—Mother.

Q—Why? A—I think I would be happier with mother.

Q—Why would you be happier? A—She is more kind to me. I don't believe that father and I have much love for each other.

Q—I ask you now, do you love your father? A—No.

Q—Why? A—Because of the way he has treated mother.

IS BROWN'S HANDWRITING. This ended Sally's direct examination and she was briefly cross-examined by Attorney Hunt. Sally was shown a handwriting exhibit, the "all right, one mad rush and you" and Mrs. Freeman was asked to have written to Dr. Bennett. Mrs. Freeman's counsel objected strenuously to Attorney Hunt's asking about this writing.

The court admitted a question subject to his ruling on its admissibility later. The stenographer then read the question, "Do you recognize that handwriting?" Sally replied that she did.

Q—Whose handwriting is it? A—Well, part of it looks like mother's, but not all of it.

BOSTON LIKES NEW MAIL SYSTEM, SAYS HURLEY. Acting Postmaster William M. Hurley reported today that the public was rapidly getting to understand the new unit postal system employed in Boston. The plan is meeting with popular favor, and the reports that Boston gets more incompletely addressed mail than any city in the country will soon be understood, he said. Business men who receive heavy mail are calling at the main postoffice and commencing the plan of the public in advising those who write to them of their proper unit number and complete address.

Q—Did you ever see Dr. Bennett? A—Yes, once.

She described Dr. Bennett as gray-haired and stout. Her mother told her the man was Dr. Bennett, the maid.

Q—Have you ever seen your father strike your mother? A—Yes.

The witness said that once at lunch she saw her father strike her mother. Asked if she saw her father strike her mother at any other times, she replied that she had seen him slap her mother's face when he was scolding her.

Q—Sally, if it came to a choice as to who you would rather live with, your father or your mother, who would you choose? A—Mother.

Q—Why? A—I think I would be happier with mother.

Q—Why would you be happier? A—She is more kind to me. I don't believe that father and I have much love for each other.

Q—I ask you now, do you love your father? A—No.

Q—Why? A—Because of the way he has treated mother.

SUSPECT PRISONER OF FOURTEEN BREAKS. Following the arrest of John Costello, twenty-nine years of age, of Union street, South Boston, the police believe they have captured the man responsible for at least fourteen jobs of house breaking which has occurred during a few months. A continuance of one week was granted when Costello was arraigned today before Judge Logan.

Don't just ask for "Kellogg's Bran"—ask for "Kellogg's KRUMBLED Bran." And always look for this signature on the package—

W.K. Kellogg

Kellogg's Krumbled Bran is the only Krumbled product of the kind. It is ready to eat, just as it is in the "wax-tite" package. Eat it as a cereal at breakfast, just when it does you the most good. (It also makes better muffins, bread, etc., than old-style bran, because it is lighter and fluffier. Recipes on each package.)

Don't be constipated—relief is pleasant if you get the genuine

TO FIGHT MOVE TO CLOSE JAILS OF STATE

Worcester County Politicians
Will Line Up for Contest in Legislature

Worcester, Jan. 22.—Worcester county politicians will soon begin to line up in the fight which is expected in the State Legislature over the plan to close all the county jails in Massachusetts. The towns of Worcester county ring in out against the plan, and some of the shining lights in the Republican politics of Worcester have begun to show their hand.

Sheriff Albert P. Richardson, keeper of the Worcester County Jail and House of Correction, is against the closing plan. He is at the head of a force of opponents to the new idea.

"It is difficult to appreciate the expediency of handing over the administration of affairs to a governing body already proven evasive and expensive," the sheriff says.

Sheriff Richardson doesn't call the move a wise one, and at all "it is a high-handed bit of nonsense," said the sheriff, "which men with brains know is a device to keep the element of sanity."

"This whole business is typical of that form of conduct through which the State penal ring aspires, eventually, to get its willing fingers into the county cash box. The recent report of the controller of county accounts established the fact that the Worcester county jail and house of correction has cost the county one and one half per cent. in the past year."

"This is one of the greatest arguments against State control. During the same period, the grand cost of State controlled institutions amounted to a per cent. of 21 per cent. The per capita cost of maintenance was fifty per cent. greater than the Worcester institution."

"They tell you of great offenders of no criminal habits or tendencies, and they then appreciate the fact that in the county institutions this class is associated with defective delinquents and drug addicts."

"These State control propagandists ought to know, as indeed they do know, that within the course of the year, such persons are committed to the several and various institutions wherein they are more closely disciplined. I can assure that the most vicious and degenerate types committed to the Worcester House of Correction are invariably those who have served their apprenticeship in State-controlled institutions, such as at Shirley, the Lyman School in Westboro and at Concord."

"There is no comparison, economically," he said, "to be drawn between the cost to the taxpayers of the State and county controlled institutions."

"FATHER BILL" DALY, 74,
ACCUSED OF CRUELTY

New York, Jan. 22.—The marital affairs of "Father Bill" Daly, patriarchal and picturesque figure of the American turf, received an airing when Mrs. Daly's suit for separation was called in the Supreme Court Monday.

Daly, who is now seventy-four, went on the witness stand and denied his wife's charges. He treated her and their eight children cruelly and failed to provide for them.

$80,000 Estate Left by Recluse Living in Poverty

Denver, Col., Jan. 22.—A recluse for nearly fifteen years in his little shack in Ninth street, this city, Miss Mary Kenny, sixty-six, supposed to be poorer than the proverbial church mouse, left an estate valued at upward of $80,000.

Miss Kenny's body was found frozen stiff in her home with every surrounding indicating that she had been solitary and alone for years. Police discovered bank books showing deposits of $7,000;
Liberty Bonds to the amount of $2,000, other securities worth about $20,000, and titles and deeds to real estate valued at approximately $40,000.

Neighbors had seen very little of Miss Kenny for over a dozen years, except as she daily un-dressed and forth from church.
Mrs. Joseph S. Newman of St.
Joseph, Ill., believed to be a niece of the woman, was notified by police.

GIRL STEPS ON MATCH, STARTS $10,000 FIRE

Three Families Driven Out as Flames Spread Through
Apartment House

Three families were driven from their homes in a ten-story apartment house in a fire that broke out in the apartment house at No. 15
Pulley street, Brooklyn, when flames spread rapidly from the first floor to the roof.

Patrolman Thomas Donohue resides in the apartment house, and who occupied an apartment adjoining at No. 15 Pulley street, when flames filled the corridors of her home. The aged woman, who is still suffering from the effects of a fractured hip, became confined in the excitement.

Shortly after the discovery of the fire and before the flames had gained considerable headway, Patrolman Donohue aroused occupants of the house except apartment and those adjoining on both sides, assisting many to the roof.

The fire started in a room occupied by Miss Katharine Robinson, a maid employed by Joseph Donohue, who occupies the first floor, when the woman stepped on a match.

Miss Robinson, whose clothing became largely consumed, and parties
H. Stevenson, janitor, ran to her assistance. Before her clothing could be extinguished the room was a mass of flames.

When the flames arrived the flames had spread upward, and Chief George H. Johnson ordered a second alarm sent in.

Mrs. George M. Hodgson, who occupies the third floor with her daughter, Marjorie, aged seven, and son,
George, Jr., aged three, was awakened by the family maid, Miss Nellie Bris-son. The only other occupant on this floor was Miss Isabel Leighton, the nurse.

Mrs. Hodgson, with Marjorie and the maid, made their way to the street through the smoke after giving themselves time to get their things together.

When she reached the street and found that the nurse and child had not left the building, she became bravely and was prevailed with great difficulty from rushing back into the building.

The child and Miss Leighton, the nurse, were later found on the roof, making their escape by way of the adjoining roof.

Mrs. George M. Hodgson, who occupies the second floor, made her escape shortly after the fire started. All the occupants were forced to flee in night attire.

The building is owned by Morris and J. H. Hudson.

TEN CENTS A DAY KEEPS FRENCH CHILD FROM WANT

Ten cents a day keeps the gap between want and comfort for a French orphan, declared Mrs. Walter R. Brewster, vice-president of the Fatherless Children of France Society, who has returned from an inspection of the organization's work in France. That sum, or $15.50 a year, supplements the small pension the French government allows such war orphans, she said, making it possible for the child to be kept at home. Allan Forbes of No. 15 State street is treasurer of the organization, committees and receive the checks sent for the French orphans.

If You Are Even Considering Purchasing Furniture You Must Take Advantage of This Great January Sale

Service with a big S is the motto of SUMMERFIELD'S, otherwise, there would have been no JANUARY FURNITURE SALE this year.

With merchandise almost up to the skies in price we could have hoarded our stocks and eventually sold them at a much greater margin of profit, but this would not be in line with the broad progressive policy of the executives of this business. Our purchases, consummated many months ago, make it possible absolutely to undersell any competitor in the country. You will find furniture here at prices that are forty to seventy-five per cent below the market today. Furthermore these prices are less than the country's finest manufacturers of furniture are quoting today. Here you will find the choicest Dining-Room Suites, Exquisite Parlor Suites, Beautiful Bedroom Suites, and hundreds of odd pieces in quaint reproductions of famous periods from such well-known makers as Luce Furniture Co., Sligh Furniture Co., Stickley Bros. Co., Grand Rapids Chair Co., Imperial Furniture Co., Detroit Cabinet Co., S. Karpen & Bros. The scope of the SUMMERFIELD stock is not surpassed by any other furniture store in New England. Truly SUMMERFIELD has won its name on merit. Even if you are not ready to buy, a trip through our six floors will allow you to revel in the delights of wonderful furniture for the home.

BRITISH STRIKE AT U. S. TRADE WITH IRELAND

Paris, Jan. 22.—Confirming recent universal service cable dispatches received from the committee of British shipping interests, inspired by the British government, to boycott the Moore-McCormack American Steamship Line plying direct between Cork and New York, it is now possible to give the text of a communication disclosing how the American flag is openly insulted by British agents in Ireland.

This communication is now in the hands of the American consul-general at Paris, who, it is understood, will forward it to Washington immediately by air mail. It was sent to him by the Irish envoys to the peace conference, who are still here, although they failed in all their efforts to prevent Ireland's case before that body. The text is as follows:

January 22, 1920.

The Hon. A. M. Thackman, Consul-General of the United States, Paris.

"Sir—England, in her illegal, unfair and obnoxious campaign to the direct trade relations between the United States and Ireland, has just heaped the most flagrant insult upon the American flag by disarming and insulting American officers aboard the American steamer Lake Gretna at Cork."

RAID AMERICAN SHIP.

"This English campaign against both the United States and Ireland has reached a stage which prompts us, as the envoys of the government of the Irish Republic, to lay before you the following facts, with the request that your government immediately take up the matter with the United States government, representing the spot, with a view to a joint investigation by the United States and the Irish government."

"When the American steamer Lake Gretna, loaded with material for Ford's tractor works, berthed at Ford's wharf at Cork on January 17, named British police detectives and pulled aboard the vessel to hold and search all members of the American crew as political suspects."

"The American officers, including the commander, Captain Moore, in dignified protest and refusal to permit the proceedings. The English officers then demanded and compelled the American officers to surrender their arms."

"Later the only explanation for the action offered by the British authorities was that they had taken this step for safeguarding until the ship sailed from the port."

"Ever since direct trading relations between the United States and Ireland were started some months ago by the Moore-McCormack Line of New York with the object of determining conditions for trade, England has carried on her campaign of intimidation."

"The intimidating campaign which England has waged against the Ford motor interests in Cork is but one example of this systematic British plan to paralyze direct trade relations between the United States and Ireland."

"During the past three months every American sailor entering Irish ports aboard a ship flying the American flag has been held up and searched as a political suspect. And in some cases his clothes have been stripped from his body and his personal property has been ransacked and destroyed or confiscated by English political detectives."

BOYCOTT U. S. AGENTS.

"The secret British documents signed by Lieutenant-Colonel J. Edgeworth-Johnstone, chief of the Dublin police, which instituted this campaign against American sailors in Ireland were presented by the undersigned to Under-Secretary Phipps, who later gave notice that they had been forwarded to Washington."

"It was recently reported by trade investigating commissions that a saving of $10 per ton can be gained by direct trade between Ireland and America."

"According to the United States government report of 1913, which contains the latest available figures, Irish trade with America amounted approximately to $22,000,000; of this amount $2,000,000 went into the pockets of English middlemen."

"English commercial interests are making to discourage this by boycotting the Dublin agents of every American line, thus compelling American ships to return from Ireland in ballast."

"It is to eliminate this trouble and to put a stop to the illegal campaign of boycott, insult, and intimidation, that we point out the necessity of immediate preliminary steps by your government with a view to co-operation."

"We have the honor to remain, Sir, very respectfully,

Caledonians to Honor Memory of Burns at Big Fete

A "Night WI Bobbie Burns," the famous Scottish poet, will be seen and heard in true Scotch style to-morrow evening when the Boston Caledonian Club celebrates its sixty-sixth annual concert and ball in honor of the one hundred and sixty-first anniversary of the birth of the poet in Mechanics Building.

Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters, Colonel Guthrie of the McLean Klittles and a detachment of "Boston's Own" Klittles regiment are among the many guests expected to be present.

The concert will include solo by Miss Jessie Fletcher, soprano; Miss Florence Macdonald, contralto; Mrs. Edith Scott Magnus, soprano; Mr. Theodore Martin, tenor; and Mr. W. L. O'Connell, bass.

Miss Flora Edwards, Lucy Ward, Dorothy Samson and Pauline Forster will be seen in costume Scottish dances.

General arrangements are under the direction of Chief William A. Hagen of Auburndale.

Colonel Walter Scott of New York will present medals in the playtime members of the Caledonian Club who served in the World War.

PLAN WOMAN'S BUREAU FOR BOSTON

Plans for the organization of a Women's Bureau in Boston similar to that in Washington, D. C., will be submitted at a meeting to be held at 7 p. m. next Tuesday by Washington Hall. The main functions of such a bureau are to coordinate and coordinate work among women and girls. The Women's Bureau in Washington proved such an effective measure in checking up during the war that it has been made permanent.

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, director of the Women's Bureau at Washington, will attend the Boston meeting and tell of the success of the movement in the national capital. Mrs. George W. Colman will preside and Mrs. George T. Rice will be one of the speakers.

Prominent women and organizations sponsoring the meeting are: Mrs. Calvin A. Coolidge, Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Mary A. Barry, Mrs. Alfred Allen, Mrs. Harold Peabody, Boston City Federation, Boston League of Women Voters, Boston Young Women's Christian Association, Boston Society for the Care of Girls, Boston Section Council of Jewish Women, Council of Catholic Women of Massachusetts, Florence Crittenton League of Compassion, Girls' Friendly Society, League for Preventive Work, Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Massachusetts Society for Social Hygiene, Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, National Civic Federation, New England Section, Committee of Woman Workers, Special Aid Society for American Prisoners, Anna Welles House, Woman's Auxiliary, Massachusetts Civil Service Reform Association, Women's Municipal League.

Just Yellow Mustard
for Backache, Lumbago

Grandmothers old musky mustard plaster or poultice generally brought relief all right even in the severest cases, but it burned and blistered like blazes.

"Heat was a and inflammation and irritation, but you'll find relief in a few minutes. It's a great external remedy—just rub on wherever aches, pains, inflammation, congestion or swelling exists and in a very few minutes the relief you have longed for surely arrives because 'Heat cures pain.' And so come at once, by mail, R. C. Wells & Co., Lowell."

JITNEY BUS COLLAPSES

Haverhill, Jan. 22.—Loaded with a score of passengers, a jitney bus owned and operated by Herbert A. Newbury, was practically demolished, when it skidded and hit a telegraph pole, and two passengers were injured.

The bus was thrown headlong into the ditch and many were cut by flying glass. Miss Rose of Amesbury was cut on the face and shoulder, and may have internal injuries. Mrs. Fannie Harris, 60 years old, of Newburyport, was badly cut.

Has a mother the right to decide how many children she will have?

How the women of Holland have answered the question of birth-control

THE war has made us realize that we cannot afford to ignore anything that claims to improve the health of our children; and this is why Pictorial Review, in line with its forward-looking editorial policy, presents to the thinking women of America the opportunity for considering the much misunderstood subject of scientific birth-control.

Everybody has heard of birth-control, but comparatively few people know what it really means. Many people are shocked at the very word. Pictorial Review does not take sides in this discussion, but when a conservative country like Holland boldly endorses the movement and publishes its reasons for so doing, it is time we looked into the matter judiciously and impartially.

The remarkable story of what the women of Holland have done under the leadership of Dr. Aletta Jacobs is graphically told by Eleanor Kinsella McDonnell in this illuminating and inspiring account, there is valuable information for every woman in America.

In Holland today—Holland, mind you—slow-moving, conventional Holland—they have a smaller death rate and a higher healthy birth rate than in any country in the world. That fact is unescapable. And Dr. Jacobs states that this is due to a sane understanding and appreciation of birth-control. Whether this is so or not, is for the women of America to judge after reading this amazing article.

No Players are Offered by New York Manager for Star Red Sox Catcher

New York, Jan. 22.—Milner Huggess is on the trail of one catcher and two outfielders now on the payroll of three American League clubs, according to an announcement made by the poppy manager on his arrival here today.

The catcher is none other than Wally Schang, the hard-hitting bopper of the Boston Red Sox; the outfielders are Happy Felsch of the White Sox and Johnny Tamm of the Browns. Huggess, the New York club manager, expects to get in direct contact with the three players and to make an offer to them. He is also expected to make an offer to Tamm, but the manager of the Browns is expected to get in direct contact with the player and to make an offer to him. Huggess is expected to make an offer to Felsch, but the manager of the White Sox is expected to get in direct contact with the player and to make an offer to him.

MEXICAN PETE

AS THE OIL LEADER

Crucible Strongest of Steel

Issues in a Dull Market

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, but above their lowest for the morning. There were some strong issues on the list. Mexican Petroleum showed the largest gain among oils, while Crucible was the leader for steel. Steels were strong as a class, but their gains averaged small. Oil irregular. The market was dull, but a little more active than yesterday. First hour transactions exceeding 17,000 shares. Call money renewed at 6 per cent. No improvement was discernible in foreign exchange at the opening, demand sterling being quoted at the low record figure of $1.59, while francs were at their lowest, at 12.55.

Among weak stocks were American Petroleum, American Union, American Leather, National Amalgam and Occo Oil. They were off from one to two points.

STEEL TURNED WEAK.
After opening irregular the market turned weak noon and receding from fractions to more than two points resulted. Oils were the strongest class at the opening, with Mexican Petroleum in the lead. It is understood that relations between the Canadian and the American oil interests in Mexico have become more amicable. Steel has been a subject of much discussion at the start, with Crucible weak. It is believed that the market will move more than a point gain. Motors and autos were strong, but not as strong as a group. Little was done in either copper, rails and most of the active carriers had a dropping tendency. American Lumber Oil and Corn Products were strong specialties. Toward the end of the first hour there was a quiet improvement, increased market remained heavy.

TRADE WATCHED WASHINGTON.
The Federal Reserve Bank seemed to have continued deliberation on discount rates. It is said that the board has been considering the question on the kind of loans being offered, and that the dominant question is where reductions should be made. A New York banker says: "Lombard at the Federal Reserve bank must be reduced. Discount rate will be 12% a month, but between the open market rate on commercial paper 16 per cent, and the Federal Reserve Bank discount rate 14% per cent, a rate for correction. The Federal Reserve discount rate will be above the large buyers' rate for paper, 15 per cent, to a 6 per cent, rate at the central bank before long."

The company is now offering the new $5,000 shares of which 50,000 shares are preferred.

Three Big Boston Banks

Out of forty-one national banks in the country which had gross deposits of $100,000 or more at the end of the year, three are in Boston. They and their deposits are the First National, $171,800,000; National City, $112,500,000; and the Merchants National, $111,000,000.

Pig Iron in Demand

There has been more demand for pig iron than for steel recently, according to the Iron Age. Automobile manufacturers have been large buyers. Orders from such sources placed in the Cleveland district alone within a week aggregated 150,000 tons.

Expect Billion-Dollar Sales

It is expected that in 1920 the gross business of the General Motors Corporation will total a billion dollars. The company's sales for 1919 are estimated at about $750,000,000.

Canada's Coal Output

The production of coal in Canada in 1919 is estimated as totaling 12,500,000 tons as compared with 10,875,000 in the preceding year.

Some Questions for Senator Lusk, With Thanks to Judge Anderson

(Reprinted from Boston American of January 21)
Britain Leads Allies in Resuming Soviet Trade

By UNIVERSAL SERVICE
Special Cable Dispatch

London, Jan. 21.—Britain is taking the lead among the allied nations in resuming trade with Soviet Russia, as a result of the virtual lifting of the blockade agreed upon by the Supreme Council last week.

Four hundred tons of Siberian butter is already en route to England, and large quantities of agricultural machinery are piled up in British ports ready for shipment to Russia.

The Socialist New York Assemblymen say they were refused their seats because they were going to ask the Lusk Committee some pointed questions.

The Socialist members say that R. N. Nathan, chief of the British spy service in America, worked hand in glove with Stevenson, of the Lusk Committee, in raiding the Russian Government's Commercial Bureau.

They say that Nathan is not an Englishman, but a Rumanian, and a professional spy, was hired by the British Government and was really after information for the use of the British Government.

They say that the Russian Commercial Bureau had arranged to buy many million dollars' worth of goods from American manufacturers and wholesalers as soon as the trade blockade was lifted, as it has just now been lifted, and that copies of these business offers and arrangements would be very valuable to British interests, which could with this information get the greater part of this enormous business away from American manufacturers and shippers.

They say that Nathan did get copies of these documents and immediately departed for England, when he was at once sent to meet Russian Soviet agents in Copenhagen as estimable assistant to Mr. O'Grady, the British diplomatic agent who is now negotiating a treaty of comity and intercourse with Livorno, the Soviet Government's representative.

They say that the Lusk Committee thus made the cat's paw of British interests, through the cleverness of the British spy system in America, and that Nathan played on the ignorance and hysteria of the committee to get nearly one hundred million dollars' worth of trade away from American business men and into the hands of British interests.

To these specific charges of the Socialist members Senator Lusk replies:

1. That no person outside of the committee and its agents had anything to do with the raids on the Russian Commercial Bureau.

2. That no papers seized in these raids were "received" by any one other than agents of the committee.

3. That R. N. Nathan, chief of the British spy system in the United States, never had any more information than did the committee.

4. That the Russian Commercial Bureau was a "blind" for distributing propaganda directed against the American Government.

Evidently the charges and counter-charges make an issue which requires investigation.

The public will not be convinced that the Socialist members are making false charges simply by expelling the Socialists and not permitting their charges to be PRESENTED or HEARD.

On the contrary, the public will suspect that the Lusk Committee has reasons for not wishing an INVESTIGATION.

The Socialist members claim to have both direct and circumstantial evidence that the British spy, Nathan, was present at the raids and that he secured photographic copies of such seized documents as he wanted.

The Socialist members not only have the right to present this evidence, but it is their duty to present it, IF THEY HAVE IT, and it is the duty of the Legislature to find out certainly whether or not the committee of the Legislature was thus grossly imposed on and made the foolish cat's paw of British commercial interests, to the immense harm of American business men.

That's true enough, isn't it, Mr. Lusk?

If it is true, as you say, that the British spy, Nathan, had nothing to do with any of the raids in the Russian Commercial Bureau and did not get copies of the documents containing the business negotiations of the bureau with American firms, why are you not more than willing to have this charge fully investigated? Why do you not insist upon an investigation and furnish every facility for such an investigation?

Citizens of America, we wonder if Mr. Lusk and his associates in the Legislature have any real conception of the Russian situation, and of what it means to the real interests of our America.

We wonder if Mr. Lusk and Mr. Sweet actually realize that the so-called Kolchak, Denikin and Yudinitch governments in Russia have been COMPLETELY DESTROYED; that their armies have been annihilated; that the Entente Powers have ceased all intention to resist the Soviet Government's rule in Russia; that the ONLY government in Russia is now the Soviet Government; and that it is, with the single exception of Great Britain, the strongest and richest government in Europe.

Do these so-called "statements" of ours happen to know that this Soviet Commercial Bureau, whose members they are bounding and trying to drive out of the country, are the regularly ACCREDITED REPRESENTATIVES of this great recognized Government of Russia, and that their errand here is solely to buy, with gold and products, more than a billion dollars' worth of American goods—to cultivate TRADE and GOODWILL that would mean eventually as much to American prosperity as the trade of all the rest of Europe?

We would be glad to learn what sense there is in driving away trade proposals which England, France, Italy and Germany are EAGER TO GET.

Is it not a fact, Mr. Lusk and Mr. Sweet, that you are the victims of a shrewd and sinister propaganda, playing upon your vast ignorance of European diplomatic and trade policies? We have not seen, in a long time, a statement so sensible as that made last week by United States Judge George W. Anderson, at a gathering of Harvard University men, in which he said:

There are Reds, probably dangerous Reds, but they are not all as dangerous as the pretence pseudo-patriots who, under the guise of patriotism, are preaching murder and shooting at sunrise, and to whom our church papers and other public forums have hitherto been open. Many, perhaps most, of the agitators for the suppression of the so-called Red menace are, I observe, the same individuals or class of forces that in 1917 and 1918 were frightening the community to death about pro-German plots. As United States District Attorney, I was charged with large responsibility as to protecting the community from pro-German plots. I assert as my best judgment that more than 95 per cent. of the pro-German plots never existed.

Judge Anderson is exactly right. The "German spy" hysteria was ridiculous, as everybody now knows.

The "Red" hysteria is ridiculous, as everybody soon will know.

The "Red" hysteria has been fomented by and used by sinister interests and self-seeking politicians either for their own discreditable ends, without the slightest regard for the best interests of our people and our country.

It is time that these periods of hysteria were ended among our sensible people, and it is time, too, that the selfish interests and notoriety-seeking politicians who promoted them and profited by them should be pilloried and punished.

The Restoration of Palestine Appeals to Liberal Humanity

Because of intolerable persecutions and privations, both intensified since the war, one of the greatest migrations in history is now taking place throughout Central and Eastern Europe.

It is an unalloyed sight of Jews wandering painfully in search of the Promised Land. Behind them lies slaughter or starvation. They must move on or perish. And so thousands of Jewish refugees are being transported on foot—hoping somehow to reach the new Zion in Palestine, the only goal of hope they know.

The suffering in this weary march of impoverished pilgrims through lands inhospitable and bare is unimaginable. Its pathways are literally strewn with folk stricken with hunger or disease.

This is only the beginning of the tide. Let some measure of peace and order come to the present areas of persecution, and hosts of Jews, now unable to migrate, will join the exodus. But the new Zion is already there. Before Palestine can accommodate hopefully the six million of Jews expected to populate it a great campaign of restoration and construction must be financed and achieved.

Moreover, if Palestine is not to be submerged by an influx of miserable pilgrims before it is made ready for them, a widespread campaign of education, retardation and relief must be undertaken in those countries where the migration is now so inopportune beginning.

All of which will require a great sum of money, and an even greater outpouring of administrative genius, statesmanship and patience.

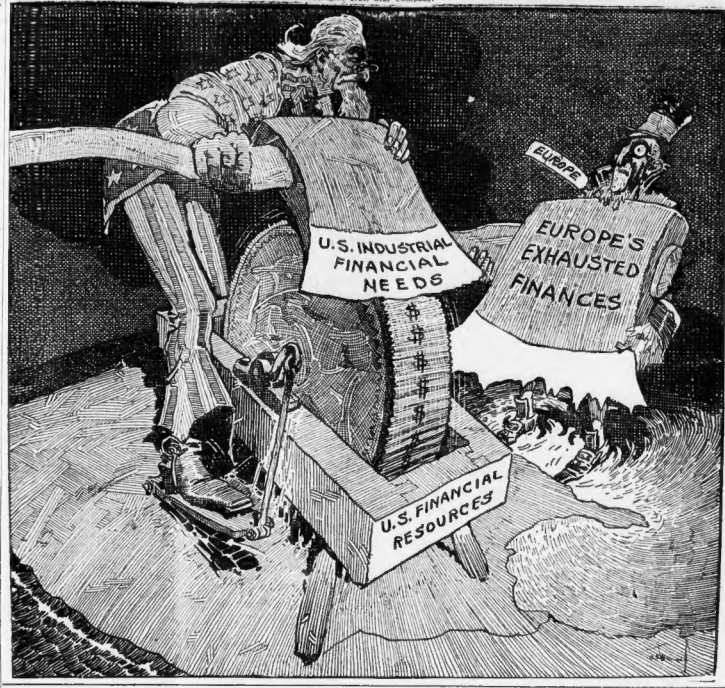

The Zionist Organization of America, presided over by Judge Julian W. Mack, with Mr. Jacobus D. Brantley as honorary president, has undertaken to get some of the money. It has decided to appeal for $10,000,000.

We are glad that the appeal is not to be limited to Jews. Although this is the first time the Jewish commonwealth, offered an asylum for the oppressed and permit Jewish nationalism to make an unfettered contribution to modern culture is necessarily of the first importance to Jew, on its economic and humane side it profoundly interests and elicits the sympathy of all liberals.

Christians especially will consider it a privilege to aid in making the Holy Land a new land of industry and democracy.

Next President?
China Up to Date
Butter for Machines
A Convenient "Curse"
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Important and welcome is the official statement by health officers that this epidemic of influenza is the old-fashioned sort, not the new virulent "Spanish" type that kills so quickly.

This news, however, should not make fathers and mothers indifferent to the fact that the ordinary cold is contagious, exactly as small pox is contagious, and that "a common cold" has given many a job to grave diggers.

The question of the hour, now, tomorrow and every day until next November: "Who is going to be President?"

You will hear dozens of answers. A good one was made by J. M. Patterson, of the Chicago Tribune: "Well, as things look now, the Republicans could elect a yellow dog, and I guess they will."

China may turn a first-class modern republic after all.

You read that the former prime minister, Chen Nung-shen, is to be the head of a big bank now that he is out of office. That is right along the American plan.

First let finance help you to get your job, next prove your gratitude while you hold your job, then let finance prove its gratitude, giving you a new job. That's Twentieth Century democracy.

A phrase cleverly written may mean much without appearing to say much. The allies tilted Holland they intend to get the Kaiser: "Legal forms are employed solely to insure the accused body guarantees. It is the duty of the powers to insure execution of Article 227 without entering into argument."

That means, "If you don't give up the Kaiser, we'll come and get him."

Russia begins trading with the outside world and sends from Siberia 400 tons of butter to England. Bolsheviks will realize that "accrued" capital is at least a convenience. Russian money having been deliberately made worthless, Russia will be compelled to trade with outside countries as the Indians traded when their goods were to the white men in return for food and other treasures.

Russian raw materials will be exchanged for manufactured articles, and Bolsheviks will rediscovers in 1920 what the human race learned millions of years ago, that money, if a curse, is a very handy curse.

It is a little complicated, trading butter for threshing machines.

High finance hates Bolshevism because it means Sovietism. Under Sovietism the various groups of workers select individuals to represent their special interests in legislation. This seems dreadful to high finance.

Has it occurred to you that high finance is a shining example of Sovietism here in the United States? How many members of Congress and of State Legislatures are chosen to represent high finance and nothing else? How many judges are put on the bench for that purpose?

If a group of laboring men, or all the groups of working men combined, had half as much power in law making as is possessed by capital alone, you would have an Industrial Sovietism worth talking about.

There is too little music in the cosmos of the ordinary American. Good music to the mind is as plough to the soil, stir it up, and it will grow. Find a ready note to the neglected lower layers of the cerebral cortex.

Mrs. Dora Mints lay asleep for a hundred days. They tried everything for thirty days. What words could not do, music did.

There are at the Rockefeller Hospital in Paris a few doctor orderlies that delicate children should be awakened with music, not by shaking. In the good old-fashioned style. He reduced the death rate.

Newspapers are amused by the translation of a tablet found in the ruins of Nineveh, finding Eve, Adam and the snake from the blots that stained their reputations for five thousand years.

Noah ate the apple, says the tablet. There is nothing important in that, Adam and Eve are dead and don't care. But it is extremely interesting to know with absolute certainty that those Sumarian tablets were written between thirty thousand years before Christ, by a people that had already attained a stage of civilization sufficiently high to indicate at least fifty thousand years of development back of them.

Do Not Forget the Number on Your Address

Bostonians are urgently requested to co-operate with the Post-office Department in the new regulations which require that each district station number be added to the address on mail matter.

Mail being sent to the American, for example, should be marked thus:

Boston American,
No. 80 Summer street,
Boston 8,
Mass.

This system, installed by the department to facilitate prompt delivery, can succeed only if all persons using the mails lend their aid. It is to their interest to do so. The rule is not an arbitrary one of the department; it is made for the ultimate benefit of users of the mails.

Complaints have been made heretofore charging that our mail service was inadequate. The new system is a reply to those complaints, showing that the department has given heed. Let the people now show fair play, by adopting the new method and giving it a thorough tryout. It has been successful in large European cities, and promises to solve a problem here. Do your part.

Miss O'Reilly, 18 Months in Madhouse, Tells Story

ELIZABETH BOYLE O'REILLY, daughter of the famous Irish poet and patriot, the late John Boyle O'Reilly, has recently been awarded freedom after a year and a half of confinement in a private insane asylum in Massachusetts. Perfectly sane herself, she has passed through months of forced association with mad women.

Persons who have visited a madhouse will wonder how a sane person could have endured the ordeal and retained her mind. Miss O'Reilly not only did this, but during her imprisonment, she wrote a book, which Harper Brothers have accepted for publication. Miss O'Reilly's own story of the horrors which she experienced, her commitment, escape and final freedom, appears in the Magazine Section of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Boston medical circles were stirred recently by the arrest of George Baklanoff, the Russian baritone who once sang the star roles at the Boston Opera House, who was taken in custody by Federal officials on charges of espionage, when he is said to have brought to America as his wife.

Friends of the couple are awaiting with great interest the decision of the Federal authorities in the matter. Will the couple be thrown into the "white slave" laws, will the Immigration

Y^e TOWNE GOSSIP

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—About the soap boxes that you say in your column you would set out for the Socialists and other radicals and the permission you would give them to "talk themselves blind."

Supposing we were at war and a street orator should get up on one of your boxes and declare against war, advising against enlistment and advocating draft obstruction, what, then, would you do? H. A. N.

MY DEAR SIR.
RIGHT AWAY.
WHEN I wrote that column.
ABOUT THE Socialists.
AND READ it over.
I SAID to myself.
"YOU'RE STEPPING out, kid.
"AND YOU'RE making a mistake.
"AND SOMEONE'S coming along.
"WITH A lot of questions.
"AND MESS you all up.
"AND YOU ought to stick to kids.
"AND BIRDS.
"AND FLOWERS.
"AND LEAVE politics.
"TO THE editorial writers.
"AND MR. Hearst."
AND IT all came true.
BUT ANYWAY.
I'M GOING to be game.
AND IF I were boss.
AND I'd be at war.
AND I'd buy soap boxes.
ALL OUT on the street.
AND SOMEONE came along.
AND MADE a speech.
LIKE THE man you mention.
I'D TAKE him off the box.
AND I'd say to him.
"IT'S TOO bad, Bill.
"AND MAYBE you're right.
"AND MAYBE I'm wrong.
"BUT WE are at war.
"AND IF we don't win.
"WE'RE ALL going to suffer.
"IT ISN'T my war.
"THAN LOCKING you up.
"AND WE'RE in so far.
"THAT WE'VE got to go through."
